

Verification of Employment & Income – made simple

Lending institutions and government agencies frequently submit requests to verify employment and income by employers, whenever current or former employees apply for a loan or government assistance. As such, completing these requests timely and accurately expedites the application process for employees. However, companies with large request volumes often lack the resources needed to keep up. Additionally, the accuracy and security of personal data may be compromised if the process is administered manually or outsourced to a provider that lacks the experience and systems proven to safeguard personal data.

Walton solves with VeriSafeJobs™, a robust Verification of Employment (VOE) solution for companies looking to automate and streamline all incoming requests securely.
